

The Health Practitioners for Peace Alliance is exploring the knowledge, attitudes and skills involved in peace promotion and peace-building amongst those providing formal Public Health education and training anywhere in the world. This includes those working for Schools of Public Health, universities and postgraduate training placements.

WHAT'S PEACE GOT TO DO WITH PUBLIC HEALTH?

Have your say in our short online survey (under 10 minutes)! You do not need to be a doctor or public health professional to take part in our surveys.

Are you involved in formal educational or professional public health training?

Anyone involved in formal education or professional public health training is invited to fill out this short survey (<10mins). This will help us understand how this topic is currently being taught and to improve future curricula.

Scan the QR code or click the link below / type into a Web browser:
<https://forms.gle/gaNpgmSKUVDtnSvK8>

Associated Partners

Join our mailing list for more information:
peace-skills-for-public-health-practitioners@googlegroups.com

