

Advancing the Future of Academic Public Health

Invest in the Next Generation of Public Health Leaders

The Association of Schools and Programs of Public Health (ASPPH) is the voice of academic public health, representing more than 155 CEPH-accredited schools and programs of public health and a community of over 103,000 faculty, staff, students, researchers, and practitioners dedicated to improving health and well-being worldwide.

Together, ASPPH and its members prepare the next generation of public health leaders, advance innovative research, and develop solutions to some of the most urgent health challenges facing communities today. As the voice of academic public health, ASPPH brings this community together to strengthen education, research, and practice in service of a healthier future for all.
